Mrs. Jack Aubrey returned Thursday from Wichita Falls, where she was called a few days ago by the sad news of the death of her brother.

The Sans Souci club met Friday evening with Miss Grace Highley, and the members continued the study of King Lear. The remainder of the evening was spent with needlework. Miss Mary Highley will be hostess next week.

Mrs. A. S. Connelley entertained the Nonpareil club Friday afternoon, having also as guests Mrs. George Depdik, Mrs. John Graves and Miss Josephine Rhoads of Beaver City. Mrs. H. H. Gilson made the top score. The next meeting will be January 8 with Mrs. Samuel Kreppe.

Characterized by the most beautiful hospitality and the pleasure of greeting two charming guests, was the bridge tea given Friday afternoon by Mrs. Samuel E. Lahti and Mrs. Louis Hiram Kilbourne in compliment to Mrs. Samuel Boden Lahti and Mrs. S. S. Kilpatrick of Jonesboro, Tenn. All of the handsome apartments were decked in red with the holly, mistle and bells of the Christmas season, except the drawing room which was all in pink with pink blossoms and pink shaded lights. Eight tables of guests enjoyed the game of auction in which Mrs. George Cooke received the handsome workbasket given as a favor, and Mrs. Guy Kimball the consolation, a set of beautiful little crocheted baskets. The honor guests were presented with lovely bouquets in pink and blue. The party of players was augmented by twenty other friends who came in for tea following the game, and the afternoon was one of unusual pleasure.

Invitations have been issued by the Merry Maids for a dance to be given Monday evening December 28 at the Country club.

Mrs. A. C. Enochs will return this evening from Belton and Tyler, Tex., where she has spent the last ten days.

The Twentieth Century club met Friday afternoon in the library. Mrs. Anton H. Claassen who was the leader, on English art told interestingly of the early English art, the borrowed painters, and the portrait and figure painters, making special mention of William Hogarty, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Thomas Gainsborough, John Hoppner, Sir Thomas Lawrence, and George Romney. She gave illustrations of the best paintings of all these artists, and also told of the stone painters, William Malready, George Forbes, William P. Frith, and Frank Holl. Mrs. J. A. Beck assisted in the lesson by giving a talk on the "Children in Art," with mention of the works of Kate M. Greenaway and Mrs. Allingham. The club will meet next Friday in the library.

Dr. and Mrs. Leslie M. Westfall returned Thursday from a two weeks visit with friends in Indiana and Chicago. Dr. Westfall took post-graduate lectures in the latter city.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed C. Sturm announce the birth of a baby boy Thursday at their home at 1111 West Tenth street.

Miss Lena Davis entertained Last Sunday afternoon. Miss Norone Stark was elected vice president. The afternoon was spent with cards and dancing and the hostess presented each guest with a hand-painted calendar. The next meeting will be December 1 with Miss Varnaeil Hunter.

Mrs. Forrest Hanks will depart this evening for Des Moines, Ia., where she will spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Underwood Daughdrill. Mr. Hanks is already in Des Moines.

The members of the Pierian club met Friday with Mrs. W. J. Rudland and roll call was answered with quotations from the Bible. Mrs. C. M. Steffy was leader. Mrs. W. A. Fulwiler read a paper on the "Lancaster and Yorkist period" and Mrs. Kramer one on "The War of the Roses." Mrs. C. A. McLaughlin gave an excellent talk on "The Formative Period of English Literature." Plans were completed for the husbands evening to be given New Years eve at the home of Mrs. C. H. Schubert. The next regular meeting of the club will be December 28 with Mrs. N. R. Nowlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene D. Nims arrived today from St. Louis for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. David McKinstry. This is their first visit here since their wedding last spring, and they will receive a warm welcome from the many old friends of Mr. Nims.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Huckins will leave this evening for a short visit in St. Louis.

Miss William Edwards entertained with delightful informality, a party of young friends at the Country club Friday evening. The hours were spent with dancing and a luncheon at a late hour.

Miss Irene Sharp is home from Shawnee for the week-end, and has as her guest Miss Gladys Williams of Purcell, who came up to see the "Beauty Shop."

The Phi Lambda Psi fraternity will entertain with a dance Monday evening, December 28, at the Musical Art Institute. The chaperones will be Messrs. and Misses Albert M. Lehr, A. L. Walsh and C. E. Van Ciesel.

Mrs. J. A. Green entertained at luncheon Friday in compliment to Mrs. A. D. McMullin of Tulsa. The table was decorated with holly and red carnations and place cards laid for Misses McMullin, S. A. S. Howell, W. H. Stout, C. Wakefield, Dickey and A. H. Halverson.

Mrs. T. P. West entertained the One O'clock Bridge Luncheon club Friday afternoon. Misses M. H. Cramer, H. C. Klyver and J. H. H. being special guests. Top scores were made by Misses W. F. Bland and Cramer. Mrs. C. P. Toneyhill will be hostess for the next meeting.

Miss Elizabeth Brock entertained a number of K. B. P. girls with a slumber party Friday evening. The hours sped merrily with music, dancing, candy making, and the telling of ghost stories by the light of the waxed fire. The guests were Misses Mary Burke, Elizabeth Gardner, Mary Alice, Helen Potters, Horrietta Knox, Isabel Harries, and Marguerite Morrison.

Bishop Francis Key Brooke returned this morning from a two weeks' stay in Tulsa, Kan. Mrs. Brooke is expecting Mrs. Fremont Smith from El Reno today for a week's visit.

Mrs. A. C. Grace entertained with a most beautifully appointed luncheon Friday in compliment to three charming women of the smart set who are departing soon for other cities. Mrs. S. T. Haddock who will go to Chicago the last of next week and Miss Adah Bennett and Mrs. E. S. Riddle who will return to their former homes in Ardmore and Chickasha shortly after the first of the year. The large table at which were seated the guests of honor was spread with a Mexican drawn work cloth over a table, and had a basket of yellow chrysanthemums tied with yellow tulle for the central decoration. The smaller tables had yellow carnations and the place cards were yellow chrysanthemums. At the close of the delightful meal the hostess asked for toasts from each guest and the responses were both clever and eloquent. Assisting in serving was a group of pretty girls, Misses Gail Crane, Frances Riddle and Laura and Rosa Enochs. The invited guests were Misses Leon Huckins, M. K. Grace, James Franklin, Charles Evans of Edmond, James Frazer, W. R. Clements, Samuel Hayes, R. D. Brower, B. H. Jones, M. J. Kane, J. E. Sharp, John Hall, Charles McLaughlin, W. R. Blackmore, S. M. Choyl, E. F. Sparrow, H. A. Craycroft, J. B. Harrell and H. Conner Todd.

Mrs. Louise Meister is expecting her daughter, Mrs. L. LeRoy Mowbray and children of Elma, Ia., December 20 for a Christmas visit.

The Philanthropic club met in the library Friday afternoon and continued the study of Emerson's poems under the leadership of Mrs. T. A. Craycroft. Mrs. C. A. Bissel read "The Problem," Mrs. C. A. Galtbrath, "The Fabric," Mrs. George Frederickson, "The Sphinx," and Mrs. A. L. Bynum "Each and All." The social meeting planned for next Friday by Mrs. Samuel Harris and Mrs. Russell G. Love has been postponed until later in the season and the club will not meet again until January 8, when a meeting will be held in the library.

An appreciative audience of friends greeted the social program Friday evening of Miss Gerty Huckins and Miss Elizabeth Brock who were presented by their teacher, Miss Belzora Phillips in the banquet hall of the Lee-Huckins. Among the best numbers given by Miss Huckins were an arrangement of the Sextette from Lucia and two Greek numbers which she played with poise and sympathy surprising in one so young. Miss Brock was especially pleasing in a group of tone poems by Mokrejs and gave an excellent interpretation of Beethoven's Sonata in G. Miss Louise Virginia Hoff assisted her group of numbers from Mokrejs being especially well received.

The General Sorosis met Friday in Sorosis hall. The members participated in a miscellaneous shower for the benefit of the needy of the city. Fifteen dollars was voted to the philanthropic fund of the City Federation. The fund from the Charity Tea was voted to be given for glasses for school children who were unable to buy them. Mrs. Stephen Treadwell gave a talk on Educational work. Mrs. Glenn Polkman and Mrs. M. E. Wolcott were elected to membership. The music department was hostess and served at the close of the afternoon.

The program prepared by the Sorosis club for the Oklahoma Art League Monday afternoon has many interesting features. It will include a talk by Mrs. Walker Combs on the "Development of the Art of Pottery." Mrs. A. H. Madison will discuss Oriental Pottery. Mrs. Hubert Bolen, "American Pottery," Mrs. Olin Walton, "English Pottery" and Mrs. C. F. Daugherty, "Continental Pottery." Mrs. C. W. Williams who has the program in charge has collected an excellent exhibit of pottery for illustration.

The Chrysanthemum club was entertained Friday by Mrs. E. M. Burton. Additional guests being Misses Stanley Williams and T. R. Cooke. New members admitted were Misses C. M. Utterback, Tom Cheatham, Fred Anderson and Harry Long. High scores were made by Misses Lee Smith and Long. Mrs. Smith will be hostess next Friday.

MEETING OF GIDEONS

Organization of Christian Traveling Men Will Be Formed at the Lee-Huckins Meeting Tonight.

The Gideons of the state will meet at the Lee-Huckins hotel tonight to form an organization to be known as the Christian Commercial Travelers' association of America, the object of which organization will be to bring a Christian influence to bear upon the travelling men of the country.

The meeting will be directed by A. B. T. Moore, president of the national Gideons organization and it will open at 7:30 sharp.

The work of this organization has been mostly confined to looking after the traveling man and placing Bibles in the hotels over the country. They have in the past six years placed 200,000 Bibles in this manner.

Several of the churches here will be occupied by Gideons and a free will offering for the purchase of Bibles in this city will be taken.

In addition to the meeting tonight the order held a meeting this afternoon in the committee room of the Lee-Huckins and President Moore addressed a body of Gideons, their wives, mothers and sisters. The meeting tonight is expected to call a large attendance of the members of the order and the organization of the proposed association will be completed.

ACCUSE TWO MILKMEN

Women Inspected Premises of Two Dairymen and Caused Their Arrest For Keeping Them Unsanitary.

A special session of police court was held this morning at 9 o'clock and two cases of violation of sanitary laws were tried. W. S. Tinsley and J. Wallace, dairymen, were accused of selling milk from unsanitary premises.

The complaints were filed as a result of the investigation of the state senate sanitary survey committee and several prominent women were present as witnesses against the dairymen. Mrs. Coulter Todd, Mrs. F. A. Garrison and Mrs. S. Ditzel were prominent witnesses who were members of the committee. Their investigations were conducted from November 25 to December 1 and upon their report the complaints were filed by A. A. Doughty, dairy inspector.

The case was carried over to a session Monday because of lack of evidence.

ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Dramatic Order, Knights of Khorassan Holds Important Meeting—Will Confer Class Degrees.

An important meeting of the Dramatic Order, Knights of Khorassan was held at Westfall Hall, Thursday evening, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

McCann, treasurer; W. H. Franz, 4 years, imperial representative; H. L. Findley, 4 years, alternate imperial representative.

The honors of "Royal Prince" were conferred upon S. W. McCann, L. C. Valbrach was recommended to the Imperial Temple for the honors of "Imperial Nabab."

After several other matters of importance were passed upon and interesting bills made by members, the temple agreed upon conferring the degree upon a large class from over the state, in Temple No. 107 some time during the early part of 1915.

STORIES OF STATESMEN

Washington, Dec. 12.—When Frank T. O'Hair learned on election night that he was defeated for congress by Mr. Uncle Joe Cannon he was perturbed almost not at all.

To the contrary, going back to dwell in Paris, Ill. after March 4 will solve a grave problem for Mr. O'Hair. Ever since he has been in Washington as a member of congress he has lost much peace of mind over the question of what to do with his collic dogs. When one has no collic dogs, one can shut up the old home, bring the family to Washington, settle down in a furnished apartment, and be a congressman without much difficulty.

But when there are seven or eight collic dogs complications arise, because a flock of collics will not thrive in the average steam-heated apartment; moreover, a great many landlords will try to discourage a tenant from moving in with eight or nine jovial, big collics. That many dogs bounding up and down the hallways, barking merrily will in time make the owners finally just as unpopular as if they had a player piano and a phonograph.

He Bought Collics.

It may be well to recall at this point just how O'Hair happened to have seven or eight or nine collic dogs. His plan originally was to have just one collic. A dog man in his town had a little group of four collics for sale and O'Hair, accompanied by his small daughter, went around to pick one out. Each collic of the four had its own individuality and was so cute and comical that O'Hair simply could not make up his mind which one to buy. So he compromised by taking all four. The more he thought it over after he got the little quartet home the more he became convinced that he had done the right thing. For, as I have heard him say:

"Almost everybody has a dog, but when you drive by a yard with four dogs in it you'll inquire who lives there."

All might have been well if Mr. O'Hair had not been elected to congress. When it came to leaving Paris, Ill. for Washington, D. C., he prepared to place the dogs in storage out on a farm. But one of the dogs gave him a funny look or something and he was convinced that they would not be content any place except right at home. Thus it became necessary for him to hire a man to come and live in his house while he was in Washington and mother his collics.

A year ago one of the collics, a particular favorite which O'Hair's little girl had named Rover, became the parent of a delightful little family. Four or five of the offspring survived, and in that way it came about that O'Hair has eight or nine collic dogs.

No Place for Him.

Now congress is no place for a man with that many collic dogs. Back home it is not improbable that O'Hair being a man of real parts, could have thought up a way to defeat Mr. Uncle Joe Cannon except for having all those dogs on his mind wondering all the while how they were making out.

The moment the early returns convinced him that he was defeated O'Hair determined that he would now carry out an ambition that he has had for more than a year. I refer to his desire to own a total of eleven collics. You may wonder why a man should want just eleven collics. Why not go ahead and make it an even dozen? you inquire.

But you overlook that Frank O'Hair has given a great deal more thought to this than you have, and he knows exactly what he's about. He wants eleven collics because eleven is a word of more than one syllable, whereas nine and ten and twelve have just one syllable each. It is much more impressive to say Mr. O'Hair, to reply in a word of more than one syllable when somebody asks you how many dogs you've got. Try it yourself. We'll say that you're sitting in a railroad smoker, for example, and the talk veers around to dogs. You make some comment about your dogs and a sharp-eyed little man, we'll say, asks suddenly: "How many dogs have you?" Then very slowly and solemnly, carefully separating each syllable, you reply, we'll say, rather ponderously:

"I have e-le-e-n."

O'Hair figured it out exactly right. Anybody would be impressed with that.

POISON PLOT ALLEGED

County Attorney's Office Used Dictagraph and Claim Evidence Against Divorced Wife of Tomlin.

As a result of a rigid investigation in which the principal feature was the use of the dictagraph, Mrs. Emma F. Tomlin was arrested yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff G. E. Johnson on charge of attempting to poison Mrs. Jennie L. Tomlin.

Lee Tomlin, former husband of Mrs. Emma F. Tomlin, was granted a divorce from her just a year ago, December 13, 1913, in Judge Carney's division of the district court, and in July married his present wife, Mrs. Jennie L. Tomlin. The two Tomlins board with Mrs. Nellie Sullivan, 210 West Fourth street and it was on the complaint of Mrs. Sullivan that Tomlin number 1 had tried to hire her to poison Mrs. Tomlin number 2 on the ground that she believed she could win back her former husband if the present wife were out of the way, that the arrest was made.

Assistant County Attorney John W. Choate took up the investigation and arranged with Mrs. Sullivan to have a meeting with Mrs. Tomlin yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. A dictagraph was concealed in the room, by Choate and Earl Hickman, a court reporter who afterward transcribed the notes taken by the machine. The machine recorded the conversation in which Mrs. Tomlin No. 1 is alleged to have urged Mrs. Sullivan to put strychnine in the food of Mrs. Tomlin No. 2, but cautioned her not to injure her former husband.

Charges were immediately prepared by the county attorney's office and the arrest made. Mrs. Tomlin at first denied her alleged plot, but finally admitted the conversation, trying to put the blame on Mrs. Sullivan. Arraigned before Justice T. F. Donnell, Mrs. Tomlin was released on $2,000 bond.
